

State-owned Corporation of Arzaq: A Source of Food Security and Economic Development

State-owned Corporation of Arzaq is considered one of Afghanistan's key state-owned enterprises, responsibly managing the storage, preservation, transportation, and distribution of food products.

The company's primary goal is to provide high-standard, reliable, and timely services to governmental and non-governmental institutions, ensuring that their essential food needs are met.

Currently, State-owned Corporation of Arzaq has formal contracts with four key ministries—the Ministry of Higher Education, the Ministry of Education, the Ministry of Labor and Social Affairs, and the Ministry of Public Health—and is committed to continuing the fulfillment of their food requirements.

In recent years, the company has achieved significant progress and is now regarded as a trusted source among government institutions. At the same time, it continues to make consistent efforts to improve its commercial operations and business plans.

The company's leadership aims to further expand its activities, introduce innovations, and not only serve government institutions but also meet the food needs of the general population. These efforts will not only contribute to economic growth but also ensure the quality and safety of food products in the country's markets.

Additionally, State-owned Corporation of Arzaq leadership encourages national and regional investors to invest in the company and direct their financial resources toward Afghanistan's economic development. In this way, the wealth of investors will be secured, and more employment opportunities will be created for skilled and unskilled workers across the country.
